Evening:

7:45—Prelude, Maryville concert band.

8:30—Lecture, Rev. George R. Stuart.

"Worms Under the Bark" was the subject of Mr. Charles L. Pattenburg's popular lecture Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Pattenburg has a good style, is an easy talker and presented his subject to the large audience in a way which pleased his hearers very much.

Mr. Pattenburg drew the subject of his lecture from an old oak tree in his boyhood home, which, dying after centuries of hardy growth, was cut down, and under the bark were found thousands of worms, which had sapped the life of the tree.

Mixing many humorous, illustrative anecdotes with good common sense, Mr. Pattenburg depicted the worms under the bark of our country, the worst of which are the mania for getting rich and the divorce evil.

The player piano recital by Manager H. R. Hancock of the Field-Lippman piano store, assisted by Maryville talent, at the close of the lecture by Mr. Pattonberg, was so good that more than usual satisfaction and appreciation for our own talent was expressed.

Mr. Hancock's assistants, Mrs. F. P. Robinson, Mr. Lee Giffin and Mr. H. J. Becker, have not appeared to better advantage at any time. The program was given according to that published in Tuesday's paper, and if those on the program could have heard the many nice comments by out-of-town people as well as those from our own town folks they would feel well repaid for their efforts.

The Troubadours gave the program at night and the prelude concert in the afternoon to the lectture. They are all that is claimed for them, and the people were delighted.

At 10:30 o'clock this Thursday morning Dr. J. Adams Puffer gave a morning lecture to a good sized crowd.

The afternoon's program at the Chautauqua consisted of a prelude concert by Byron's Troubadours, a lecture by Mrs. Leonora M. Lake and an open air band concert by the ladies' band.

Camp Notes.

The second annual B. V. D. track meet was held at the Normal athletic park at 11:30 o'clock Wednesday night. There were fifteen entries from among the campers at the Chautauqua.

The first event was the 100-yard dash. The time and the winner could not be determined, however, for it was too dark to see either man or watch.

Next came the 440-yard run. Several of the runners being in their bare feet suffered greatly from the cinders on the track.

The third event scheduled was a relay race, but just then the rain began and everyone scrambled into the grand stand. A few started for camp and were caught in the heaviest part of the rain. The others kept wandering from end to end of the grand stand hunting for a place that did not leak.

When the rain finally stopped they slipped and splashed their way to camp in the mud. But listen now: How long has it been since you waded barefoot in the mud? So long that you have forgotten the sensation. Take the advice of these athletes and get out in the next mud. They say that to feel the soft, oozy mud slipping up between their toes was worth more than all their discomfort from being rained on.

Three of the boys, bent on finishing their part of the track meet in true style, went into the big tent, where the tentmen were emptying water pockets, and putting newspapers on their heads to keep their hair dry, took the finest kind of a shower bath in the water which was leaking through the roof of the tent.

The Sigma Delta Chi sorority are encamped in all their glory—excepting night. They're all afraid of snakes and bugs and won't stay out there of nights. One of the Sorority girls, Miss Lois Halley, and her grandmother, Mrs. E. E. Bever of Burlington Junction, will leave Saturday on a pleasure trip to the Ozarks.

The crowning social event of the Chautauqua occurred Thursday, when the Young Ladies' Bridge club entertained with a 1 o'clock luncheon in honor of two brides-elect, Miss Emma Lee Taylor of this city and Miss Zeta Culbertson of Albany, who is the guest at the camp this week. Miss Culbertson arrived Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Maud Bainum. Miss Culbertson graduated from the Northwest Normal two years ago and has since been teaching in the high school at Albany. She is soon to become the bride of Mr. J. C. Straub, a young banker of Fayette, Mo. Miss Taylor will be married in September to Prof. J. J. Godby of Arlington, Texas. The other company at luncheon were Miss Babe Howden of Skidmore, Miss Mary Shaaber of Reading, Pa., and Miss Veva Sawin of Atchison, Kan., who is the guest of Mrs. Leslie Dean; Miss Ruby Peery of Albany, who arrived Wednesday night for a visit with Miss Laura Barmann; the hostesses of the club, Miss Brownie Toel; Miss Marie Brink, Miss Hazel Ritchie, Miss Esther Shoemaker, Miss Maud Bainum, Miss Elise Jackson, Miss Laura Barmann, Miss Rena Sturm, Miss Kittie Grems. The entire company at luncheon were in camp over Wednesday night.

A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations, as a compliment to Miss Emma Lee Taylor, who has selected these colors for her wedding in September. The flowers for the luncheon were pink and white cosmos. The place cards were decorated with hand painted cupids. The hostesses presented each bride-to-be a cluny lace centerpiece. This was one of the prettiest luncheons of the kind that has been given here for some time, and the most novel because it is the first given during such a time. Mrs. Victor I. Moore, the sister of Miss Emma Lee Taylor, who gave her announcement party two weeks ago, was also a guest at this luncheon.

* * *

Mrs. A. G. Bentley, who is the teacher of the Willing Workers class No. 3 in the M. E. church Sunday school of Ravenwood, entertained her class by bringing them to the Chautauqua Wednesday afternoon in automobiles, remaining until after the entertainment at night. Mr. Bentley, J. S. Casteel and F. P. Roof conveyed the party in their cars. The members of the class are Misses Fay Bishop, Vesta Hunt, Golda Roof, Nellie Bentley, Leora Nelson, Elsie McElvain, Bessie Corken, Bessie Pettigrew, Wavie Ralston, Lillian Lawson, Eva Lawson, Ethel Stephenson, Esther Beardsley and Gwendolyn Steiger. Mrs. J. S. Casteel also accompanied the party. A picnic supper was enjoyed on the grounds by the hostess and her guests.

The band concert given this afternoon by the Ladies' band, Miss Alma Nash, director, was much enjoyed by a large crowd. The following was the program that was given:

March—Timothy Bunker.
Overture—Oom Paul.
Waltz—Rosalind and Happy Birds.
Schottische—Lucky Star.
Mexican dance—Santa Rosa.
March—Happy Mose.
Extras:
March—Q. S. Clarion.
Waltz—Hearts' Haven.
March—Oh, You Circus Day.

The Penelope club and the I X L Embroidery club, each one, mind you, claim to be having the time of their lives. And no one would think of disputing their word. They are all lovely women, and the white-haired ones are the prettiest. The I X L's had a great time laughing at two of its members Wednesday, Mrs. Cooper Gooden

TO OUST COUNCIL

PROCEEDING AGAINST SIX MEMBERS TO BE COMMENCED.

TO MAKE 'EM OBEY LAW

Within the next few days ouster proceedings will be filed with Circuit Clerk Rathbun against six members of the city council for failure to comply with the law to file campaign expenses. The members of the council stated in the petition that did not comply with the law are Henry Foster, alderman from the First ward; C. D. Hooker and John Borrusch, aldermen from the Second ward; John Gray and Charles McNeal, aldermen from the Third ward, and Louis Gram, alderman from the Fourth ward. There are only two aldermen that filed affidavits of expenses, they being Frank Ewing and Wm. Moyer.

The proceedings are brought by Judge J. W. Morris, through his attorney, F. P. Robinson. At the same time the ouster proceedings are filed, a mandamus suit will be brought against the city to issue a commission as police judge to J. W. Morris. These cases will probably be called up before Judge Ellison at the special term of circuit court to be held next week.

According to one attorney the law plainly states that a candidate for alderman, before qualifying, must file an affidavit giving the amount of money spent in the campaign, and failure to do so would disqualify him for that office and he would be subject to a fine of not more than $1,000.

The ouster proceedings are brought as a result of the police judge squabble, which has been up in Maryville for several months. It is probable that the question will be decided next week.

At the special term of court next week, Judge Arch Davis of Chillicothe will sit as special judge in a number of cases. They are the case against Wood Gaulding, charged with complicity in a box car robbery at Ravenwood a year ago, and paving tax bill cases. Gaulding has now been in jail a year, and was given a two-year sentence to the penitentiary at the February term of court, but a new trial was granted to him.

COWHERD TO AID MAJOR.

Defeated Candidate Will Be in Front Ranks of Campaign.

W. S. Cowherd of Kansas City, defeated candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, wired his congratulations to Attorney General Major yesterday and proffered his services to him in the campaign. Mr. Cowherd said:

"Accept my sincere congratulations upon your victory. Command me during the campaign."

Major replied as follows:

"Congratulations received and your generous offer of service during the campaign sincerely appreciated and accepted. Knowing full well your merit and ability, you will, therefore, be placed in front of the battle. No man in the state can render the party better service in the coming election than yourself."

Cattle Went Up to $10.20.

Cattle reached the highest point ever known at the St. Louis National stock yards when steers from Callaway county, Missouri, sold for $10.20 per hundred pounds Wednesday, the 14th. They were bought when weighing but 950 pounds each last fall for less than 5 cents per pound, and Mr. E. J. Grant, who conditioned them for market, states he never before doubled his money on cattle. They weighed, when they went over the scales at the St. Louis yards, 1,493 pounds on the average. They were Shorthorn stock, fed last winter on shock corn and since April having a full feed of ear corn, with ten pounds daily of cattle fattener, besides running on blue grass.

The high price paid indicates the shortage of cattle here and the increasing demand. Hogs sold for $8.70 per hundred pounds. The top-takers at that figure came from McFall, Mo., and weighed an average of 225 pounds each.

Not within 50 per cent enough hogs or cattle are being received here to meet the requirements of the local packers and butchers and the eastern order buyers.

TRADE IS EXTENDING

NEW TERRITORY BEING BROUGHT IN BY SALES DAY.

THIRD ONE A SUCCESS

The third bargain day by the Maryville merchants, held on Wednesday, was a success, and many of them were more than pleased with their business for that day. However, none of the merchants who are undertaking the plan to increase business here are discouraged with the results that they have had so far, being much better than they had figured on. The merchants report that always at this time of the year business is very dull.

At the Maryville Furniture company the special they advertised on Wednesday, sanitary steel couches, were all sold by 1 o'clock on that day. They could have sold many more if they had had them in stock. Then at the Price & McNeal furniture store, one woman sent them a check for the sewing machine they were advertising and ordered it shipped to her home, without coming to town to look at it.

Many other merchants report that they sold out all items they had advertised, while others did not do so well, but they are not discouraged.

One result that is already noticed by the merchants who are in this bargain day plan is the amount of goods being shipped from here on these days. That is what the merchants are trying to do—increase and extend their trade.

GUILFORD PICNIC BOOSTERS

Were Kept at Home Thursday on Account of the Big Rains Last Night.

The Guilford picnic advertising committee were intending to start out Thursday morning on their automobile tour of the county to boost for their annual picnic, August 27, 28 and 29.

The heavy rain of Wednesday and Thursday morning in that section deferred their plans until a later date.

The Guilfordites are getting ready for a very fine picnic, and they are going to do some effective advertising.

EX-GOVERNOR YATES HERE.

Will Be the Chautauqua Lecturer at This Evening's Session.

Ex-Governor Richard Yates of Illinois arrived in the city Thursday to fill his engagement at the Chautauqua this evening, when he will deliver a lecture. Mr. Yates is a fine talker and is one of the biggest public men on the program so far.

Mr. Yates is still a Republican and says that he is strong for Taft for president.

Mrs. F. L. Flynt and baby returned Wednesday night from a visit at Rolla, Mo.

WHY HE IS STILL IN THE G. O. P.

Article in Eastern Magazine Gives His Reasons For Refusing to Follow Roosevelt.

Gor. Herbert Hadley of Missouri, who was a strong Roosevelt supporter during the Republican convention, but who now refuses to stand by the colonel, tells in Leslie's Weekly his reasons for remaining in the G. O. P. He says:

"The reasons urged by those who have joined in this movement are that the Republican party is a sectional party, that it has outlived its usefulness, and that it is not in accord with the progressive spirit of the day, on account of the fact that its machinery is in the control of men who are either conservatives or the representatives of special interests.

"The Republican party is no less sectional today than it was in the days of Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, McKinley and Roosevelt. The splendid service that it has rendered to the people of the United States and to civilization has been rendered notwithstanding the fact that a large majority of those who composed it lived north of Mason and Dixon's line.

"Speaking from a personal standpoint," he concluded, "I have felt that as the head of the Republican party in the fifth largest Republican state in the Union and the largest Republican state west of the Mississippi, as the captain of the ship of state for the time being, I should not be among the first to abandon it and that I should not abandon it all at unless fully convinced that it is going down."

BRADSHAW'S PLURALITY 3,399.

Democratic Attorney General Race Indicates Narrow Margin—Official Count Probably Today.

Unofficial figures on the state primary give James T. Bradshaw of Kansas City 3,399 plurality over "Rube" Oglesby of Warrensburg for the Democratic nomination for railway and warehouse commissioner. The few counties not heard from cannot materially change the figures given.

Perry S. Rader is defeated for judge of the supreme court, division No. 1, by Henry W. Bond, about 2,000. R. F. Walker of St. Louis defeated Judge H. C. Timmonds for supreme court judge, division No. 2, by 3,400.

Later and more complete returns on the attorney generalship indicate a very narrow margin between Barker and McAllister.

E. J. Deal won the nomination for state treasurer over J. B. O'Meara by from 5,000 to 7,000.

Seven counties and the city of St. Louis have not as yet reported official returns. If they arrive, the returns will be opened and cast up Thursday at Jefferson City.

FOR BETTER SERVICE

CONVENTNON OF MUTUAL TELEPHONE MANAGERS TO BE HELD.

NEW LINE TO SKIDMORE

Propositions to Be Taken Up August 31.—Convention to Be Held in Maryville in September.

The directors of the Mutual telephone lines in Nodaway county met in Maryville on Wednesday at the court house and all of the directors were present with the exception of two. Delegations from Maitland, Skidmore and Pickering were in attendance.

W. L. Schoonover, the switchboard manager of the Maryville line, told the directors that better service is to be given.

R. A. Walker of Skidmore talked to the directors about the conditions now existing on the toll line between Maryville and Skidmore, and asked that the board string another new wire to Skidmore, to be maintained by the two boards. The proposition was taken up and it was decided to hold a meeting in Maryville on August 31 of the representatives of the Maryville line to devise means of raising money for the new toll line.

It was also decided to hold a county convention in Maryville in September, each switchboard to have one representative for each 100 phones. Better service is the aim of the board of directors of the Mutual company.

The meeting Wednesday was the outcome of four years' work on the part of W. L. Schoonover, the local manager, whose ambition it is to secure co-operation among the Mutual lines of the four counties. It has been a long fight to get the different interests involved to reach a common viewpoint, and if better and more extended service results with economy to the patrons he will be entitled to a large measure of credit for his work.

HE GOT OUT THE VOTE.

Judge Morris Expended $5.50 For That Purpose—Two Others File Statements.

Another candidate, John W. Airy, filed his campaign expenses on Thursday. They amounted to $27.50, the amount being spent for newspaper advertisting.

Going to California.

Miss Helen Trullinger, the daughter of Mrs. Cora Trullinger of this city, will leave August 26 for Los Angeles, Cal., where she has a position as stenographer. Miss Trullinger is a graduate of the Maryville high school of the class of 1911 and graduated June last from the Maryville Business college.

WILSON STANDS ON HIS RECORD

WILL WIN LEGION OF FRIENDS

Is Not to Play a Part in Democratic Campaign, Declares Publicity Chairman.

New York, Aug. 12.—Josephus Daniels, chairman of the publicity committee of the Democratic national committee, said today:

"Eight years ago during the presidential campaign of 1904 I came to New York and, being a member of the Democratic national committee, I dropped in at the headquarters of the committee. I found the literary bureau of the committee very actively engaged in perusing the volumes of Theodore Roosevelt. When I saw on every desk 'The Winning of the West,' 'The Life of Thomas H. Benton' and a half dozen others of the works of the then Republican nominee for president, I wondered whether or not I had gotten into the right place.

"I was immediately set aright, however, when I was informed that the literary young men were engaged in culling from those books some of the many denunciations and bitter criticisms and attacks made by Theodore Roosevelt upon public men and measures, and his aspersions upon great representative bodies of our people, such as workingmen and farmers.

"I found them preparing to send forth broadcast all over the land such excerpts from the writings of Theodore Roosevelt as:

"'Cowboys are much better fellows and pleasanter companions than small farmers or agricultural laborers; nor are the mechanics and workmen of a great city to be mentioned in the same breath.'

"'Mr. Bryan and his adherents have appealed to the basest set in the land—the farmers.'

"'They (workingmen who object to government by injunction) are not in sympathy with men of good minds and sound civic morality.'

"They quoted from what he said about the Quakers, that those who would not fight were traitors to their country.

"They said that when the farmers and workmen and the Quakers came to know what Theodore Roosevelt had written about them they would rise up with wrath and indignation and bury Theodore Roosevelt beneath an avalanche of votes. They said that Roosevelt would not answer that exposure of his views, and, of course, he never did. I agreed with them that it was the proper thing to do to herald these utterances through the country.

"As to whether or not that sort of campaigning had any effect, the result of the campaign eight years ago speaks for itself.

"The Republican party is attempting to do today the same sort of thing that the Democrats tried in 1908. The Democrats out-Rodenberged Mr. Rodenberg. They were eight years ahead of him in this sort of thing. It didn't work with us then and it will not work with them now.

Stands on Record.

"The attempt to attack Gov. Wilson because of certain statements which he made in writing history and in commenting upon events of history as they appeared to him as historian, will fail signally. As one great metropolitan newspaper pointed out, Mr. Rodenberg and his kind are simply 'Blowing against the wind.' Governor Wilson is running for president on his record as a public man, and with that record the public is fairly well conversant, and it will continue to learn more as the campaign progresses.

"He is running for president on his record as governor of New Jersey, what he said and did in that capacity, rather than what he wrote as a historian, chronicling events and commenting upon them as they appeared to an impartial observer whose duty it is to write of things as they are rather than as they should be or as he would have them.

"Our Republican brethren are entitled to all the thunder they can make out of Governor Wilson's writings. I hope they will read them carefully and thoroughly. They will be able to gain a great deal of valuable information and when the context is read along with the excerpts which have been taken from his works for the purpose of placing him in a false light, I have no fear as to the results. All that is needed is a thorough understanding.

"Ingersoll sought to disprove Bible truths and to assail Holy Writ by the same methods which the Republicans are seeking to assail Gov. Wilson."

SENATOR GORE OF OKLAHOMA:

"The closing sentence of his speech will become the battle hymn of Democracy in the pending campaign: 'I thank God and take courage.' It is at once a paean of praise and is a summon to patriotic duty."

THEY SAP THE LIFE

and Mrs. J. A. Lorance, who were to bring some especially good things for dinner, among them a large kettle of chicken noodles. The Lorance driving horse is so taken up with the Chautauqua that he has become a booster, and can hardly wait to start to the grounds in the mornings. So the two ladies hitched up the horse, and being a little excited themselves over the good things, all hot and ready to eat, they forgot to put the bit in Dobbin's mouth. 'Twas all he wanted. So off he started at a lively rate, striking a curbing here and there and making things interesting for the ladies who were trying to hold the steaming kettles and pans and dishes of good things steady. The tightening of the reins did no good, so in order to save the noodles he was given full rein while Mrs. Lorance caught up the kettle and held it out safely in the air, while it waved to and fro as a banner. Thus they came into camp, having hit only the high places on the way, but the noodles were saved and everybody said they were the best they had ever tasted.

PANAMA CANAL BILL REVISED

American Owned Foreign Ships Denied Free Passage.

RAILROAD SECTION IS DRASTIC

Washington, Aug. 15.—An agreement on the Panama canal administration bill was reached by the conference committee of the house and senate by which free passage is denied to American owned ships engaged in foreign trade. Foreign ship building materials are admitted free of tariff to the United States. The interstate commerce commission is given power to break up any combination of competing rail and water lines which it finds are not for "the public good."

Two of the six members of the conference committee, Senator Brandegee and Representative Frederick C. Stevens of Minnesota, declined to sign the report. Those who did attach their names to the agreement were Bristow and Simmons, and Representative Adamson and Representative Sims.

Opposition Probable.

The conference agreement will be reported to the house and senate immediately. It is believed it will be subject to some opposition before it is agreed to. In dropping out the senate amendment giving free passage to American ships engaged in foreign trade the conference committee met the opposition of those who considered this a direct violation of the treaty with Great Britain.

The senate amendment admitting foreign built ships to American registry when owned by Americans was supplemented with the provision admitting shipbuilding material free of tariff, to meet the opposition of house members who claimed the American shipbuilding industry would otherwise suffer.

No Railroad Vessels.

Practically all of the force of the Bourne railroad amendment attached to the bill in the senate was retained by the conferees. It was rewritten to give the interstate commerce commission the right to determine whether railroads should be allowed to hold water lines, and to sanction such ownership when it was in the public interest.

The railroad section of the bill is drastic in its terms and broad in the powers it confers on the interstate commerce commission. It prohibits them, after July 1, 1914, from owning or controlling competing steamer lines, "operating through the Panama canal or elsewhere," and gives to the interstate commerce commission the power to determine whether the railroad and steamship lines are "competing carriers," within the meaning of the law.

RELIEF IN SIGHT FOR SOLDIERS

Pension Bill Which Held Up Payment of $9,000,000 Passes Senate.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The action of the senate in passing the pension bill was the culmination of a dispute which has held up the payment of more than $9,000,000 in pension payments due Civil war veterans August 4. The financial operations of the pension bureau have been chaos. The house probably will accept the senate provision regarding the abolition of the pension agencies throughout the country. This was the only provision of the bill in dispute, and its settlement was expected to end the deadlock between the house and senate.

THIRTY CARS ON BOOSTERS TOUR

Paola Business Men's Club Takes Brass Band on Trip Through County.

Paola, Kan., Aug. 15.—The Business Men's club of Paola is touring the southern half of Miami county in motor cars boosting for good roads and incidentally showing that the county seat is a live town. About 30 cars went on the trip, and the Paola band, consisting of 28 pieces, was taken. The route is through Fontana, LaCygne, Cadmus, Parker, Beagle and Osawatomie.

Grasshoppers Stop a Band.

Atchison, Kan., Aug. 15.—Several million grasshoppers swarmed in Atchison and broke up the band concert. They crawled in some of the horns and put them out of tune. Farmers are complaining of the large number of grasshoppers and say that a heavy rain is needed to relieve the corn.

Sailors Attacked in Panama.

Dr. Doolittle has succeeded Dr. Harvey Wiley as chief pure food expert of the United States government, in the agricultural department.

MARTIAL LAW FOR MANAGUA?

AMERICAN TROOPS TO PROTECT FOREIGNERS.

Unless Conditions Improve Immediately, Minister Weitzel Will Take Charge of Government.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Unless conditions in Nicaragua materially improve within the next 48 hours, the United States will order Minister Weitzel to take charge of the government and with the aid of 350 marines and 100 bluejackets already in Managua, proclaim martial law.

Long experience with Latin-American republics has shown the state department that too much leniency is a dangerous thing and, while President Taft is wedded to ideas of peace and diplomacy, even he admitted to Secretary Knox that something should be done at once.

Accordingly, the state department wired Minister Weitzel to assume control of the American troops in Nicaragua, moving them as he thought best for the protection of foreigners and their property, and even using them to attack the rebels should they attempt to bombard the foreign portion of Managua.

Owing to the difficulties of communication nothing further reached the state department concerning this threat.

In addition to the 450 sailors and marines already at Managua, Weitzel will have the aid of 300 sailors from the Denver which has sailed from San Diego, Cal., for Corinto, within three days.

HURON CEMETERY UNDISTURBED

Bill Prohibiting Removal of Indian Bodies Reported Favorably.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Sentiment triumphed over commercial necessity when the house Indian affairs committee favorably reported a bill prohibiting the removal of Huron cemetery, an Indian burying ground in Kansas City, Kas., in which repose the bones of members of the once powerful Wyandotte tribe.

The cemetery had been used by the tribe for many years and scores of the survivors petitioned that the graves of their fathers be left undisturbed. The bill already has passed the senate. The ground was desired for commercial purposes.

Animal Stood Watch While Robber Looted Eight Stores in Kansas Town.

Wichita, Aug. 15.—A burglar, who had a lookout a big bulldog, broke into eight stores in Bellepiaine and carried away several hundred dollars' worth of goods besides taking money. He was seen about midnight when Mr. Constans, a restaurant owner, closed his place and started home, striding on the corner with the bulldog. Later the tracks of the animal were seen in the rear of every store robbed. The burglar had a wagon. There had been a rain and the tracks were seen distinctly.

DARROW PLEAD FOR LIBERTY

Labor Lawyer Faces Jury in His Trial for Bribery.

BITTER TOWARDS PROSECUTORS

During Three Hour Speech Accused Man Mixed Denunciation of Accusers With Analysis of Evidence.

Los Angeles, Aug. 15.—Clarence S. Darrow, champion of organized labor and defender in the courts of its leaders and principles, pleaded for his own liberty and reputation in his trail for alleged jury bribery. He faced the jury in the afternoon at the conclusion of Earl Rogers' argument.

The Chicago lawyer poured torrents of wrath and denunciation upon those who he declared had plotted to destroy him. From an arraignment of his enemies, he went briefly into his career as a friend of the working classes and thence into an analysis of the evidence produced against him to prove the charge that he had bribed George N. Lockwood, a prospective juror in the McNamara case.

Throughout three hours, consumed by him, Darrow touched upon every phase of the case and ran the gamut of emotions in his plea. No man or organization involved in his prosecution was immune from his denunciation.

Severe on All.

Assistant District Attorney W. J. Ford, who sat within his reach, was made the object of repeated floods of invective. District Attorney Fredericks and Detective Burns were termed the tools of the steel trust, and the National Erectors' association designated by Darrow as the arch conspirator against him because of his labors for the workingman, was bitterly assailed as an enemy of society. Collectively, all were denounced as "cruel a band of cutthroats as ever pursued a man since the world was born."

Darrow declared he was not being prosecuted for bribery, but because he had led in the battle of organized labor.

To Conclude in Morning.

"I have committed one crime," he said, "which is like the crime against the Holy Ghost, which cannot be forgiven. I have stood for the weak and the poor. I have stood for the men who toil. And therefore I have stood against them. Now is their chance." The enemies of labor, he charged, had long sought to get him out of the way.

Enumerating all to whom immunity has been extended in the effort to convict him, Mr. Darrow asked why it was his associates in the McNamara case had not been prosecuted. The answer, he said, was because Davis lived in Los Angeles and it was not the intention of the authorities to prosecute anyone in this city.

Darrow will conclude his argument in the morning after which District Attorney Fredericks will make the final argument. The prosecutor expects to consume the remainder of the day.

TROUBLE BREWING NOW IN EGYPT

Alexandria, Egypt Aug. 15.—International complications involving Italy and Great Britain are threatened as the result of the holdup of a Roumanian mail steamer, from Constantinople, in Egyptian waters by an Italian war vessel. A number of Turkish officers who were on board were seized.

At the time, the steamer was only a few miles off this port and protests have been made by the Turkish authorities that the action of the Italians was in direct violation of Egyptian neutrality. They threaten to bring the matter formally to the attention of the powers.

Oppose New Wheat Law.

Dodge City, Kan., Aug. 15.—A formal protest signed by hundreds of the the leading wheat growers of Ford and adjacent counties is to be presented at once to the Kansas state board of health against the law forbidding the sale of wheat containing a half pound of weed or other foreign matter. W. G. Painter, a leading land owner and real estate man who is circulating the petition, says the farmers consider the law the greatest outrage perpetrated against them in years.

New Town Platted.

Dodge City, Kan., Apg. 15.—The newest town in Western Kansas is Wildroads, a few miles from here in Ford county, on the Rock Island. It has just been platted and two elevators, a general store, postoffice and other business houses are planned. The Rock Island will put in a station soon.

New Sultan of Morocco.

Paris, Aug. 15.—Mulai Yusef was proclaimed sultan of Morocco, succeeding Mulai Hafid, who abdicated, according to a cablegram just received.

MAY YET AGREE ON ONE BATTLESHIP

Democrat Caucus Likely to End Deadlock Over Naval Bill.

TO ECLIPSE ALL DREADNAUGHTS

Friends of Navy Will Urge Construction of Largest and Most Formidable Fighting Craft Ever Built.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The Democrats of the house who believe the United States should keep abreast of smaller nations in maintaining a modern navy have successfully fought the other Democrats' "no battleship" program, which was caused by an effort to "reduce expenses." A recent caucus forbade the majority members of the house from voting for any new warship appropriation. A caucus just held withdrew this action and permits them to vote for one vessel—but not more.

Now the friends of the navy will make a campaign to have this one vessel they are permitted to provide for the largest and most formidable fighting craft that even Hobson's fondest dreams can picture.

To be Best of All.

That such a move will meet with bitter debate on the ground of extravagance is a foregone conclusion. The advocates of two new ships a year, however, boast that the new craft will be equal in battle efficiency to any two ships below the dreadnaught size, and far superior to any of the largest monsters now afloat.

Unlike the four preceding caucuses, there was an absence of bitterness of feeling and by a rising vote of 95 to 11 the resolution of recession was put through. It is expected the senate will agree to the one battleship plan, ending the deadlock over the naval bill.

There were present in the secret meeting 126 members representing all opinions on the subject of appropriating for naval expenses and of these 20 refrained from voting.

Not Bound to Vote.

The recession from the former caucus action was embodied in the following resolution:

"Resolved: That the former action of the Democratic caucuses in regard to battleships be and is hereby modified so as to premit any and all Democratic members who desire to do so, to vote in the house for one battleship only and to permit the Democratic member of the conference committee on the naval appropriation bill to agree to one battleship. No member is bound by this resolution to vote for one battleship should he not desire to do so."

Representative Sulzer of New York, who has led the fight for two battleships in the pending bill, sought in vain to have the caucus take no action as to the number of ships, but to release members to vote for one or two as they saw fit.

Witness Got Away.

Dodge City, Kan., Aug. 15.—The Ford county jail being filled, Cleveland Clay, of Georgia, held as a witness against Will Watson, charged with robbing the Bedell jewelry store, gained freedom from his improvised cell in the city hall by breaking two window bars. Clay still is at large.

SON BORN TO MRS. JOHN JACOB ASTOR.

New Arrival Has $3,000,000 in His Own Name — Mother Had Wished for Boy.

New York, Aug. 14.—A 7¾-pound boy was born to Mrs. Madeline Force Astor, widow of Col. John Jacob Astor, who perished in the Titanic disaster last April. The baby has a fortune of $3,000,000 in his own name.

News of the interesting event was conveyed to the world by the following bulletin issued by the specialist in charge:

Mrs. Astor has a son, born at 8:15 a. m. His name is John Jacob Astor. The mother and son are in good condition.

That the child was a boy was a matter of great satisfaction to Mrs. Astor and her family. Mrs. Astor announced to friends that she hoped it would be a boy, to bear the name of her husband. Vincent Astor was until now the only son of Colonel Astor, and there was none to dispute with the new arrival the name of John Jacob Astor. The child is the fourth of the line to bear that name.

The young mother a few days ago sent word to waiting reporters that she preferred to be referred to as Mrs. John Jacob Astor, instead of Mrs. Madeline Force Astor. The arrival of a boy, it is said, may further strengthen the rivalry between the widow and Mrs. Ava Willing Astor, divorced wife of Colonel Astor, now in Europe. Mrs. Ava Willing Astor has announced that she will hereafter be known as Mrs. John Astor.

By the terms of the will of Colonel Astor, the baby becomes the possessor of $3,000,000 outright, which he may dispose of at will during his minority. Had little John Jacob been one of twins or even triplets, each child, by the Astor will, would have received $3,000,000.

A Lady Unafraid

By LOUISE OLNEY

(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.)

She was little enough and slight enough and with a great enough burden upon her. But she carried herself with a gallant lift of the head and squared shoulders. In boyhood her father had begun by hard work to make a fortune. If in old age he had suddenly lost it, his daughter thought she could begin at the foot as he had done. Regina Frank was equipped with youth and health and her courage was even better than her father's, because through her aristocratic mother she inherited a thoroughbred strain. She was even thankful that the mother died just before the crash came.

This hot morning she came to the office prepared for nothing but the usual routine which her year's steady work had mastered. And the unusual happened.

Zant's real estate office was quiet enough and as vacations were on and business hopelessly dull, Jared Zant stayed at home that day and sent his son to the office. Junior would have preferred golf or dawdling about summer verandas where pretty girls were to be found, but he knew that after an elaborate college education and several years abroad at dad's expense, it was necessary for him to do office duty on request. Therefore, he went, for the first time in two years.

And he saw Regina. Regina was to all appearances almost oblivious to his gay presence. He could feel that her steady brown eyes marked his entrance, took stock of him in general, and then attended to the day's correspondence, lifting for another look only when their owner heard herself addressed.

She took a few unimportant letters for him, wrote a few important ones on her own initiative and got him to sign them, and generally minded her business with extreme concentration. In which trait she was like her father, John Trant.

Just before luncheon young Zant wondered whether he dared try conversation with her, and irritably decided that he didn't know what to say to her. He meant to ask dad where he got her. He hadn't known that girls like that worked in offices. His keen blue eyes followed her every line and color and movement with a sort of surprised approval. She might have been a college queen—and with that thought he dawdled out to lunch.

Saw Regina Full Length and Face Down Upon the Grass.

Along the middle of the afternoon came breezing into the office Maidie Perkins, her fat mother and her fatter father. They had heard that a picturesque, old-looking place on the lake was for sale—the old Trant place. Did Mr. Zant handle it? Old Perkins thought so, and gave a sidewise look of admiration at Regina, who made no sign until the young man turned to her for help.

"I'm only here for the day, you know," he said helplessly. "Miss—the lady here will tell you." He looked at Regina.

"We have the place—it's for sale. Have you looked at it?"

"The dearest grounds, and the house so romantic looking!—can you let us see it? Does any one here know all about it?" They all looked at Regina—but Maidie. Jerry Zant turned to Regina.

"Could you go out with thme? Do you know the place?" She gave a queer little smile. Did she know the place which her father had built for her, dear in every stone in brick, every nook and corner?

"I know it well," she said. "I will go if you like." Her steady eyes met young Zant and all their deep beauty was for an instant his.

"We have the car out here—we can bring her back," said Perkins. "My daughter thinks she wants the place, and if it isn't too steep for my pile she can have it—what do you want for it?" John Zant, Jr., turned to Regina and consulting a card catalogue she coolly named the price. Then she put on her hat nad gloves and prepared to go. At the door she heard a little call, and waited for orders.

"Miss—Miss—you needn't come back [illegible]" She gave him a little bow, as if it were she dismissing him instead of he her.

"By—gravy!" he remarked when she had gone. Then he repeated the elegant ejaculation: "What's her name?—and where did dad get her? Look out, my boy, or you are gone for sure!" With which adjuration he called over to the further corner of the room for Walters to come to him.

Walters had been young a half century ago, but was now withered up and wrinkled, smug and dry-as-dust. Walters was bald, and his lips were pursed, and a pen was over his ear. He faced his employer's young son.

"Miss Regina; Regina Trant," he sumbitted solemnly. "Your father would never 'a sent the gal out to sell her own old home, neither! I must say that fer 'im!"

"What?" submitted the young man. "What do you mean?"

"Her father, old John Trant, built that there place on the lake for Miss Regina. She never speaks of it. He lost everything—guess you were at school. She was—east somewheres, and her ma died sudden and they gone. He was honest and paid his creditors. She supports him now. It'll make her feel bad to show that silly gal around the place. If you had of asked me—but she will make the sale all right—she's true blue—she ain't afraid."

"She's a lady—unafraid, all right," breathed Zant, junior, his eyes and his imagination on fire. "I'll go right out there—and—and—I will fix it up someway. You look after the office, Walters. Phone father if anything comes up and say I'm out on business that would not wait."

At the nearest garage the young man got a car and went spinning down the avenues and out the boulevard to the lake, through the lesser, wandering roads to the old Trant place. As he reached the gate and got out he met the Perkinses going to their own car. Regina was not with them.

"Where's your—guide?" he asked lightly, while Maidie's eyes suggested assorted coquetries. The girl was pettish and enthusiastic.

"She said she wanted to walk about by herself and would go in on the trolley. I have decided that I want the place. I must say she seemed to know every corner of it and made it awfully interesting. I want it."

An inspirtion came to the young man. He was sorry for Maidie, but burning with zeal to see her go. He turned to her father.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but I was new in the office, and didn't know that the place is no longer for sale. The Trants want it back—they have the first right to it."

"I'll give $500 more outright for it," began Perkins, but Zant was firm. Finally, he mollified and got rid of them on promise to show them another place the next day.

He turned in at the gatt of the big, homey old place and wandered down a garden path. The grass was tnagled and uncut, the roses blooming in wild profusion. He heard a queer little sob like a child's, and turning a corner saw Regina full length and face down upon the grass under a tree. She had not heard him.

"Don't," he said awkwardly, kneeling beside her, "please don't."

In an instant she was on her feet, and he also rose. She stood facing him, her hands hanging straight at her side, the tears on her cheeks. She tried to smile, but it was hard work.

"I—" she began quietly, "I used to live here, and——"

"I was a brute!" he said. "I didn't know. I met the Perkinses and told them the place is not for sale. I have some money from my grandmother. I want to get it—for you. You must think I am insane, but I am not. I intend to make you love me and come here and live with me some day, and your father, too. I won't insult you by asking you now. But—the place shall never be sold again—I won't let dad do it. Will you walk about a bit and show it to me?" He picked up her hat and soothed her with commonplace inquiries until she forgot her trouble and was once more herself.

"I'm so ahamed," she murmured when the sun was low and they were again at the gate. She would not go in the machine with him, but made him put her on the trolley. He left her reluctantly.

"You will remember—what I said?" he asked impetuously. She gave a little smile and that gallant little lift of the head.

"Whatever comes, or doesn't come, I shall try not to be—afraid."

When "Labby" Blundered.

The worst mess that I ever got into was at a dinner in a country town where I took the chair. Having got through all the usual toasts some friends prompted me to propose the health of the mayor's wife. I drew a picture of a sort of modern Cornelia; I dwelt upon the matron's domestic virtues, and prayed heaven that I might find such a wife. Carried away by my subject, I had forgotten my audience. Suddenly I perceived that some were looking down, others staring at me as though their eyes would come out of their heads, others smiled in a curious manner, while the mayor was glaring at me like a wild beast. I discovered afterward that the mayoress had fled from the domestic hearth a few weeks previously with a Don Juan of a grocer. I have never been asked since to take the chair at a dinner in that town.—Labby Reprinted in London Tit-Bits.

QUAINT NAMES GIVEN CLUBS

London Institutions Seem to Have Been Designed for All Sorts of Queer People.

The title "Cave of the Golden Calf" bestowed on London's first cabaret theater club, which opened its doors recently, recalls other curiously named clubs which have flourished in this country at different times.

For instance, there was the "Calves' Head club,' founded in "ridicule of the memory of Charles I."

"The Everlasting" was a purely social club, with a membership of 100 souls.

"The Little club" was a distinctly original institution. It was intended for those not five feet high. The door was made high enough to admit a man five feet and no more.

There were many others, eccentric in name and tradition, which flourished during the eighteenth century, such as "The Great Bottle club," the "Je Ne Sais Quoi club," "The Sons of the Thames" and the "No Pay No Liquor club," whose members on the first night of joining were obliged to pay an entrance fee of one shilling and wear a hat shaped like a quart pot.—London Tit-Bits.

American Shopping.

A New York letter in the Munich Gazette speaks of the pleasures of shopping in the great cities of the United States, and lays particular stress on the "fairness" of the rules under which all stores seem to work. "It makes no difference," says the writer, "how unfamiliar one is with the language and the currency—he has the same place in the line of patrons with the natives. Polite salesmen and saleswomen show the goods, which are seldom urged upon the customer; the prices are fixed, and one knows that he buys at the same figure without bidding less, as his neighbor who tries to pinch the price. In one place I purchased goods to the value of 7 marks, listened to a fine concert, took tea at a small price, wrote several letters in a beautiful room at no cost save the postage, and found the goods at my home when I reached there a few hours later."

Why It Has a Hump.

Keepers of the zoological gardens are expected to know all the facts and theories of natural history, and, as they do not, they sometimes have to manufacture explanations.

"What's it for?" repeated the keeper, in a dazed way.

"Yes, of what value is it?"

The keeper thought real hard for a minute, and then said, gravely:

"Why, sir, do you suppose folks would come miles to see this animal if it didn't have a hump? Sir, a camel if it didn't have a hump might just as well be a cow. That's the use of the hump!"

Something Like It.

"Will you have some mocking bird soup?"

A new waitress in a family hotel on the hill startled the diners last evening by asking this question.

"I'll not eat at this hotel again. I'm a member of the Audubon society. The very idea! Making soup out of mocking birds!" indignantly remarked a woman.

"I'll take a chance on it just once," said her husband.

The waitress went to the kitchen and returned.

"I made a mistake," she said. "It was mock turtle soup."

But That Was Long Ago.

Hewitt—Times have changed.

Jewett—Right you are; I remember when a pedestrian had an even chance for his life when he tried to cross the street.

CARDUI WORKED LIKE A CHARM

Jonesville, S. C.—"I suffered with womanly trouble," writes Mrs. J. S. Kendrick, in a letter from this place, "and at times, I could not bear to stand on my feet. The doctor said I would never be any better, and that I would have to have an operation, or I would have a cancer.

I went to the hospital, and they operated on me, but I got no better. They said medicines would do me no good, and I thought I would have to die.

At last I tried Cardui, and began to improve, so I continued using it. Now, I am well, and can do my own work. I don't feel any pains.

Cardui worked like a charm."

There must be merit in this purely vegetable, tonic remedy, for women—Cardui—for it has been in successful use for more than 50 years, for the treatment of womanly weakness and disease.

Please try it, for your troubles.

THEY SAP THE LIFE

"WORMS UNDER THE BARK" IS CAUSE OF DECAY—PATTENBURG.

TROUBADOURS PLEASING

The Many Happenings of Camp Life as Picked Up by Reporters—Victrola Concert Was Fine.

Tonight's Program.

Evening:

7:45—Prelude, Byron's Troubadours.

8:20—Address, Hon. Richard Yates, ex-governor of Illinois.

Friday's Program.

Morning:

10:00—Lecture, "Mouth Hygiene," Dayton Dunbar Campbell, D. D. S.

11:00—Lecture, Dr. Puffer.

Afternoon:

2:00—Prelude concert, Maryville Concert band.

2:45—Lecture, Judge Frank P. Sadler.

4:30—Open air band concert.

Evening:

7:45—Prelude, Maryville concert band.

8:30—Lecture, Rev. George R. Stuart.

"Worms Under the Bark" was the subject of Mr. Charles L. Pattenburg's popular lecture Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Pattenburg has a good style, is an easy talker and presented his subject to the large audience in a way which pleased his hearers very much.

Mr. Pattenburg drew the subject of his lecture from an old oak tree in his boyhood home, which, dying after centuries of hardy growth, was cut down, and under the bark were found thousands of worms, which had sapped the life of the tree.

Mixing many humorous, illustrative anecdotes with good common sense, Mr. Pattenburg depicted the worms nder the bark of our country, the worst of which are the mania for getting rich and the divorce evil.

The player piano recital by Manager H. R. Hancock of the Field-Lippman piano store, assisted by Maryville talent, at the close of the lecture by Mr. Pattonberg, was so good that more than usual satisfaction and appreciation for our own talent was expressed.

Mr. Hancock's assistants, Mrs. F. P. Robinson, Mr. Lee Giffin and Mr. H. J. Becker, have not appeared to better advantage at any time. The program was given according to that published in Tuesday's paper, and if those on the program could have heard the many nice comments by out-of-town people as well as those from our own town folks they would feel well repaid for their efforts.

The Troubadours gave the program at night and the prelude concert in the afternoon to the lecture. They are all that is claimed for them, and the people were delighted.

At 10:30 o'clock this Thursday morning Dr. J. Adams Puffer gave a morning lecture to a good sized crowd.

The afternoon's program at the Chautauqua consisted of a prelude concert by Byron's Troubadours, a lecture by Mrs. Leonora M. Lake and an open air band concert by the ladies' band.

Camp Notes.

The second annual B. V. D. track meet was held at the Normal athletic park at 11:30 o'clock Wednesday night. There were fifteen entries from among the campers at the Chautauqua.

The first event was the 100-yard dash. The time and the winner could not be determined, however, for it was too dark to see either man or watch.

Next came the 440-yard run. Several of the runners being in their bare feet suffered greatly from the cinders on the track.

The third event scheduled was a relay race, but just then the rain began and everyone scrambled into the grand stand. A few started for camp and were caught in the heaviest part of the rain. The others kept wandering from end to end of the grand stand hunting for a place that did not leak.

When the rain finally stopped they slipped and splashed their way to camp in the mud. But listen now: How long has it been since you waded barefoot in the mud? So long that you have forgotten the sensation. Take the advice of these athletes and get out in the next mud. They say that to feel the soft, oozy mud slipping up between their toes was worth more than all their discomfort from being rained on.

Three of the boys, bent on finishing their part of the track meet in true style, went into the big tent, where the tentmen were emptying water pockets, and putting newspapers on their heads to keep their hair dry, took the finest kind of a shower bath in the water which was leaking through the roof of the tent.

The Sigma Delta Chi sorority are encamped in all their glory—excepting night. They're all afraid of snakes and bugs and won't stay out there of nights. One of the Sorority girls, Miss Lois Halley, and her grandmother, Mrs. E. E. Bever of Burlington Junction, will leave Saturday on a pleasure trip to the Ozarks.

The crowning social event of the Chautauqua occurred Thursday, when the Young Ladies' Bridge club entertained with a 1 o'clock luncheon in honor of two brides-elect, Miss Emma Lee Taylor of this city and Miss Zeta Culbertson of Albany, who is the guest at the camp this week. Miss Culbertson arrived Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Maud Bainum. Miss Culbertson graduated from the Northwest Normal two years ago and has since been teaching in the high school at Albany. She is soon to become the bride of Mr. J. C. Straub, a young banker of Fayette, Mo. Miss Taylor will be married in September to Prof. J. J. Godby of Arlington, Texas. The other company at luncheon were Miss Babe Howden of Skidmore, Miss Mary Shaaber of Reading, Pa., and Miss Veva Sawin of Atchison, Kan., who is the guest of Mrs. Leslie Dean; Miss Ruby Peery of Albany, who arrived Wednesday night for a visit with Miss Laura Barmann; the hostesses of the club, Miss Brownie Toel; Miss Marie Brink, Miss Hazel Ritchie, Miss Esther Shoemaker, Miss Maud Bainum, Miss Elise Jackson, Miss Laura Barmann, Miss Rena Sturm, Miss Kittie Grems. The entire company at luncheon were in camp over Wednesday night.

A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations, as a compliment to Miss Emma Lee Taylor, who has selected these colors for her wedding in September. The flowers for the luncheon were pink and white cosmos. The place cards were decorated with hand painted cupids. The hostesses presented each bride-to-be a cluny lace centerpiece. This was one of the prettiest luncheons of the kind that has been given here for some time, and the most novel because it is the first given during such a time. Mrs. Victor I. Moore, the sister of Miss Emma Lee Taylor, who gave her announcement party two weeks ago, was also a guest at this luncheon.

* * *

Mrs. A. G. Bentley, who is the teacher of the Willing Workers class No. 3 in the M. E. church Sunday school of Ravenwood, entertained her class by bringing them to the Chautauqua Wednesday afternoon in automobiles, remaining until after the entertainment at night. Mr. Bentley, J. S. Casteel and F. P. Roof conveyed the party in their cars. The members of the class are Misses Fay Bishop, Vesta Hunt, Golda Roof, Nellie Bentley, Leora Nelson, Elsie McElvain, Bessie Corken, Bessie Pettigrew, Wavie Ralston, Lillian Lawson, Eva Lawson, Ethel Stephenson, Esther Beardsley and Gwendolyn Steiger. Mrs. J. S. Casteel also accompanied the party. A picnic supper was enjoyed on the grounds by the hostess and her guests.

The band concert given this afternoon by the Ladies' band, Miss Alma Nash, director, was much enjoyed by a large crowd. The following was the program that was given:

March—Timothy Bunker.
Overture—Oom Paul.
Waltz—Rosalind and Happy Birds.
Schottische—Lucky Star.
Mexican dance—Santa Rosa.
March—Happy Mose.
Extras:
March—Q. S. Clarion.
Waltz—Hearts' Haven.
March—Oh, You Circus Day.

The Penelope club and the I X L Embroidery club, each one, mind you, claim to be having the time of their lives. And no one would think of disputing their word. TO OUST COUNCIL

PROCEEDING AGAINST SIX MEMBERS TO BE COMMENCED.

TO MAKE 'EM OBEY LAW

Within the next few days ouster proceedings will be filed with Circuit Clerk Rathbun against six members of the city council for failure to comply with the law to file campaign expenses. The members of the council stated in the petition that did not comply with the law are Henry Foster, alderman from the First ward; C. D. Hooker and John Borrusch, aldermen from the Second ward; John Gray and Charles McNeal, aldermen from the Third ward, and Louis Gram, alderman from the Fourth ward. There are only two aldermen that filed affidavits of expenses, they being Frank Ewing and Wm. Moyer.

The proceedings are brought by Judge J. W. Morris, through his attorney, F. P. Robinson. At the same time the ouster proceedings are filed, a mandamus suit will be brought against the city to issue a commission as police judge to J. W. Morris. These cases will probably be called up before Judge Ellison at the special term of circuit court to be held next week.

According to one attorney the law plainly states that a candidate for alderman, before qualifying, must file an affidavit giving the amount of money spent in the campaign, and failure to do so would disqualify him for that office and he would be subject to a fine of not more than $1,000.

The ouster proceedings are brought as a result of the police judge squabble, which has been up in Maryville for several months. It is probable that the question will be decided next week.

At the special term of court next week, Judge Arch Davis of Chillicothe will sit as special judge in a number of cases. They are the case against Wood Gaulding, charged with complicity in a box car robbery at Ravenwood a year ago, and paving tax bill cases. Gaulding has now been in jail a year, and was given a two-year sentence to the penitentiary at the February term of court, but a new trial was granted to him.

Defeated Candidate Will Be in Front Ranks of Campaign.

W. S. Cowherd of Kansas City, defeated candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, wired his congratulations to Attorney General Major yesterday and proffered his services to him in the campaign. Mr. Cowherd said:

Major replied as follows:

"Congratulations received and your generous offer of service during the campaign sincerely appreciated and accepted. Knowing full well your merit and ability, you will, therefore, be placed in front of the battle. No man in the state can render the party better service in the coming election than yourself."

Cattle Went Up to $10.20.

Cattle reached the highest point ever known at the St. Louis National stock yards when steers from Callaway county, Missouri, sold for $10.20 per hundred pounds Wednesday, the 14th.

They were bought when weighing but 950 pounds each last fall for less than 5 cents per pound, and Mr. E. J. Grant, who conditioned them for market, states he never before doubled his money on cattle. They weighed, when they went over the scales at the St. Louis yards, 1,493 pounds on the average. They were Shorthorn stock, fed last winter on shock corn and since April having a full feed of ear corn, with ten pounds daily of cattle fattener, besides running on blue grass.

The high price paid indicates the shortage of cattle here and the increasing demand. Hogs sold for $8.70 per hundred pounds. The top-takers at that figure came from McFall, Mo., and weighed an average of 225 pounds each.

Not within 50 per cent enough hogs or cattle are being received here to meet the requirements of the local packers and butchers and the eastern order buyers.

TRADE IS EXTENDING

THIRD ONE A SUCCESS

The third bargain day by the Maryville merchants, held on Wednesday, was a success, and many of them were more than pleased with their business for that day. However, none of the merchants who are undertaking the plan to increase business here are discouraged with the results that they have had so far, being much better than they had figured on. The merchants report that always at this time of the year business is very dull.

At the Maryville Furniture company the special they advertised on Wednesday, sanitary steel couches, were all sold by 1 o'clock on that day. They could have sold many more if they had had them in stock. Then at the Price & McNeal furniture store, one woman sent them a check for the sewing machine they were advertising and ordered it shipped to her home, without coming to town to look at it.

Many other merchants report that they sold out all items they had advertised, while others did not do so well, but they are not discouraged.

One result that is already noticed by the merchants who are in this bargain day plan is the amount of goods being shipped from here on these days. That is what the merchants are trying to do—increase and extend their trade.

GUILFORD PICNIC BOOSTERS

Were Kept at Home Thursday on Account of the Big Rains Last Night.

The Guilford picnic advertising committee were intending to start out Thursday morning on their automobile tour of the county to boost for their annual picnic, August 27, 28 and 29.

The heavy rain of Wednesday and Thursday morning in that section deferred their plans until a later date.

The Guilfordites are getting ready for a very fine picnic, and they are going to do some effective advertising.

EX-GOVERNOR YATES HERE.

Will Be the Chautauqua Lecturer at This Evening's Session.

Ex-Governor Richard Yates of Illinois arrived in the city Thursday to fill his engagement at the Chautauqua this evening, when he will deliver a lecture. Mr. Yates is a fine talker and is one of the biggest public men on the program so far.

Mr. Yates is still a Republican and says that he is strong for Taft for president.

Will Go to New York.

Mrs. Edward L. Townsend will accompany her mother, Mrs. Lavencour Michau on her trip to New York City for a visit with their daughter and sister, Mrs. Edward H. Williams. All in the party leave Thursday evening and include Mrs. Townsend and Mrs. Michau, Mrs. Ralph W. Eversole, D. R. Eversole, Miss Neva Airy and G. B. Holmes, Jr.

Returned to Oklahoma.

D. W. Hull of Afton, Okla., who was called to Maryville Tuesday to attend the funeral of his father, Cornelius Hull, left Thursday morning for his home. Mr. Hull and his family left Maryville two years ago and settled on their farm, six miles from Vinita, and they have never regretted the change.

Bride and Groom Leave.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Jones of Moravia, Ia., who have been visiting for two weeks with Mrs. Jones' aunt, Mrs. E. P. Knabb, living west of Maryville, left for their home Thursday. Mrs. Jones was married three weeks ago, her maiden name being Miss Jurilda Stephens, and she has frequently visited her aunt in this city.

Miss Alma Lyle of Parnell, who has been visiting at the home of Roy Lyle, at Burlington Junction, is the guest of Miss Ella O'Grady.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Davis of Hopkins left Thursday for Columbia, Mo., to visit Mr. Davis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Davis, formerly of this city.

Mrs. F. L. Flynt and baby returned Wednesday night from a visit at Rolla, Mo.

WHY HE IS STILL IN THE G. O. P.

Article in Eastern Magazine Gives His Reasons For Refusing to Follow Roosevelt.

Gor. Herbert Hadley of Missouri, who was a strong Roosevelt supporter during the Republican convention, but who now refuses to stand by the colonel, tells in Leslie's Weekly his reasons for remaining in the G. O. P. He says:

"The reasons urged by those who have joined in this movement are that the Republican party is a sectional party, that it has outlived its usefulness, and that it is not in accord with the progressive spirit of the day, on account of the fact that its machinery is in the control of men who are either conservatives or the representatives of special interests.

"The Republican party is no less sectional today than it was in the days of Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, McKinley and Roosevelt. The splendid service that it has rendered to the people of the United States and to civilization has been rendered notwithstanding the fact that a large majority of those who composed it lived north of Mason and Dixon's line.

"Speaking from a personal standpoint," he concluded, "I have felt that as the head of the Republican party in the fifth largest Republican state in the Union and the largest Republican state west of the Mississippi, as the captain of the ship of state for the time being, I should not be among the first to abandon it and that I should not abandon it all at unless fully convinced that it is going down."

BRADSHAW'S PLURALITY 3,399.

Democratic Attorney General Race Indicates Narrow Margin—Official Count Probably Today.

Unofficial figures on the state primary give James T. Bradshaw of Kansas City 3,399 plurality over "Rube" Oglesby of Warrensburg for the Democratic nomination for railway and warehouse commissioner. The few counties not heard from cannot materially change the figures given.

Perry S. Rader is defeated for judge of the supreme court, division No. 1, by Henry W. Bond, about 2,000. R. F. Walker of St. Louis defeated Judge H. C. Timmonds for supreme court judge, division No. 2, by 3,400.

Later and more complete returns on the attorney generalship indicate a very narrow margin between Barker and McAllister.

E. J. Deal won the nomination for state treasurer over J. B. O'Meara by from 5,000 to 7,000.

Seven counties and the city of St. Louis have not as yet reported official returns. If they arrive, the returns will be opened and cast up Thursday at Jefferson City.

WILL ENTERTAIN ARKOE CAMP.

The Local Lodge of W. O. W. to Confer Degrees Upon a Number of Arkoe Members.

Magnolia camp, W. O. W., will entertain the members of Arkoe camp at their regular meeting next Monday night. The degrees will be conferred upon a number of the members of Arkoe camp and refreshments will be served. The initiatory degree will be given two new members, one from Arkoe and one from Maryville. The local camp has a membership of over two hundred, and a large turnout is expected.

Returned to Kansas City.

Mrs. C. S. Heimbaugh and daughter, Maxiline, who have been visiting their relatives, the Bainum and Garten families of Maryville and Pickering, for several weeks, returned home Thursday morning, accompanied by Mrs. E. H. Bainum, who will visit at their home ten days.

Returned to Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Montville of Kansas City, who have been spending the past two weeks in Maryville at the home of Mrs. Montvilles' sister, Mrs. Charles Gaugh, returned home Thursday morning.

FOR BETTER SERVICE

NEW LINE TO SKIDMORE

The directors of the Mutual telephone lines in Nodaway county met in Maryville on Wednesday at the court house and all of the directors were present with the exception of two. Delegations from Maitland, Skidmore and Pickering were in attendance.

W. L. Schoonover, the switchboard manager of the Maryville line, told the directors that better service is to be given.

R. A. Walker of Skidmore talked to the directors about the conditions now existing on the toll line between Maryville and Skidmore, and asked that the board string another new wire to Skidmore, to be maintained by the two boards. The proposition was taken up and it was decided to hold a meeting in Maryville on August 31 of the representatives of the Maryville line to devise means of raising money for the new toll line.

It was also decided to hold a county convention in Maryville in September, each switchboard to have one representative for each 100 phones. Better service is the aim of the board of directors of the Mutual company.

The meeting Wednesday was the outcome of four years' work on the part of W. L. Schoonover, the local manager, whose ambition it is to secure co-operation among the Mutual lines of the four counties. It has been a long fight to get the different interests involved to reach a common viewpoint, and if better and more extended service results with economy to the patrons he will be entitled to a large measure of credit for his work.

WILSON STANDS ON HIS RECORD

WILL WIN LEGION OF FRIENDS

"Eight years ago during the presidential campaign of 1904 I came to New York and, being a member of the Democratic national committee, I dropped in at the headquarters of the committee. I found the literary bureau of the committee very actively engaged in perusing the volumes of Theodore Roosevelt. When I saw on every desk 'The Winning of the West,' 'The Life of Thomas H. Benton' and a half dozen others of the works of the then Republican nominee for president, I wondered whether or not I had gotten into the right place.

"I was immediately set aright, however, when I was informed that the literary young men were engaged in culling from those books some of the many denunciations and bitter criticisms and attacks made by Theodore Roosevelt upon public men and measures, and his aspersions upon great representative bodies of our people, such as workingmen and farmers.

"I found them preparing to send forth broadcast all over the land such excerpts from the writings of Theodore Roosevelt as:

"'Cowboys are much better fellows and pleasanter companions than small farmers or agricultural laborers; nor are the mechanics and workmen of a great city to be mentioned in the same breath.'

"'Mr. Bryan and his adherents have appealed to the basest set in the land—the farmers.'

"They quoted from what he said about the Quakers, that those who would not fight were traitors to their country.

"They said that when the farmers and workmen and the Quakers came to know what Theodore Roosevelt had written about them they would rise up with wrath and indignation and bury Theodore Roosevelt beneath an avalanche of votes. They said that Roosevelt would not answer that exposure of his views, and, of course, he never did. I agreed with them that it was the proper thing to do to herald these utterances through the country.

"As to whether or not that sort of campaigning had any effect, the result of the campaign eight years ago speaks for itself.

"The Republican party is attempting to do today the same sort of thing that the Democrats tried in 1908. The Democrats out-Rodenberged Mr. Rodenberg. They were eight years ahead of him in this sort of thing. It didn't work with us then and it will not work with them now.

Stands on Record.

"The attempt to attack Gov. Wilson because of certain statements which he made in writing history and in commenting upon events of history as they appeared to him as historian, will fail signally. As one great metropolitan newspaper pointed out, Mr. Rodenberg and his kind are simply 'Blowing against the wind.' Governor Wilson is running for president on his record as a public man, and with that record the public is fairly well conversant, and it will continue to learn more as the campaign progresses.

"He is running for president on his record as governor of New Jersey, what he said and did in that capacity, rather than what he wrote as a historian, chronicling events and commenting upon them as they appeared to an impartial observer whose duty it is to write of things as they are rather than as they should be or as he would have them.

"Our Republican brethren are entitled to all the thunder they can make out of Governor Wilson's writings. I hope they will read them carefully and thoroughly. They will be able to gain a great deal of valuable information and when the context is read along with the excerpts which have been taken from his works for the purpose of placing him in a false light, I have no fear as to the results. All that is needed is a thorough understanding.

SENATOR GORE OF OKLAHOMA:

"The closing sentence of his speech will become the battle hymn of Democracy in the pending campaign: 'I thank God and take courage.' It is at once a paean of praise and is a summon to patriotic duty."

THEY SAP THE LIFE

and Mrs. J. A. Lorance, who were to bring some especially good things for dinner, among them a large kettle of chicken noodles. The Lorance driving horse is so taken up with the Chautauqua that he has become a booster, and can hardly wait to start to the grounds in the mornings. So the two ladies hitched up the horse, and being a little excited themselves over the good things, all hot and ready to eat, they forgot to put the bit in Dobbin's mouth. 'Twas all he wanted. So off he started at a lively rate, striking a curbing here and there and making things interesting for the ladies who were trying to hold the steaming kettles and pans and dishes of good things steady. The tightening of the reins did no good, so in order to save the noodles he was given full rein while Mrs. Lorance caught up the kettle and held it out safely in the air, while it waved to and fro as a banner. Thus they came into camp, having hit only the high places on the way, but the noodles were saved and everybody said they were the best they had ever tasted.

PANAMA CANAL BILL REVISED

American Owned Foreign Ships Denied Free Passage.

RAILROAD SECTION IS DRASTIC

Washington, Aug. 15.—An agreement on the Panama canal administration bill was reached by the conference committee of the house and senate by which free passage is denied to American owned ships engaged in foreign trade. Foreign ship building materials are admitted free of tariff to the United States. The interstate commerce commission is given power to break up any combination of competing rail and water lines which it finds are not for "the public good."

Two of the six members of the conference committee, Senator Brandegee and Representative Frederick C. Stevens of Minnesota, declined to sign the report. Those who did attach their names to the agreement were Bristow and Simmons, and Representative Adamson and Representative Sims.

Opposition Probable.

The conference agreement will be reported to the house and senate immediately. It is believed it will be subject to some opposition before it is agreed to. In dropping out the senate amendment giving free passage to American ships engaged in foreign trade the conference committee met the opposition of those who considered this a direct violation of the treaty with Great Britain.

The senate amendment admitting foreign built ships to American registry when owned by Americans was supplemented with the provision admitting shipbuilding material free of tariff, to meet the opposition of house members who claimed the American shipbuilding industry would otherwise suffer.

No Railroad Vessels.

Practically all of the force of the Bourne railroad amendment attached to the bill in the senate was retained by the conferees. It was rewritten to give the interstate commerce commission the right to determine whether railroads should be allowed to hold water lines, and to sanction such ownership when it was in the public interest.

The railroad section of the bill is drastic in its terms and broad in the powers it confers on the interstate commerce commission. It prohibits them, after July 1, 1914, from owning or controlling competing steamer lines, "operating through the Panama canal or elsewhere," and gives to the interstate commerce commission the power to determine whether the railroad and steamship lines are "competing carriers," within the meaning of the law.

RELIEF IN SIGHT FOR SOLDIERS

Pension Bill Which Held Up Payment of $9,000,000 Passes Senate.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The action of the senate in passing the pension bill was the culmination of a dispute which has held up the payment of more than $9,000,000 in pension payments due Civil war veterans August 4. The financial operations of the pension bureau have been chaos. The house probably will accept the senate provision regarding the abolition of the pension agencies throughout the country. This was the only provision of the bill in dispute, and its settlement was expected to end the deadlock between the house and senate.

THIRTY CARS ON BOOSTERS TOUR

Paola Business Men's Club Takes Brass Band on Trip Through County.

Paola, Kan., Aug. 15.—The Business Men's club of Paola is touring the southern half of Miami county in motor cars boosting for good roads and incidentally showing that the county seat is a live town. About 30 cars went on the trip, and the Paola band, consisting of 28 pieces, was taken. The route is through Fontana, LaCygne, Cadmus, Parker, Beagle and Osawatomie.

Grasshoppers Stop a Band.

Atchison, Kan., Aug. 15.—Several million grasshoppers swarmed in Atchison and broke up the band concert. They crawled in some of the horns and put them out of tune. Farmers are complaining of the large number of grasshoppers and say that a heavy rain is needed to relieve the corn.

Sailors Attacked in Panama.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Four American officers of a ship of the Pacific Mail company, now in the harbor of Panama, are reported to have been assaulted and severely beaten by the local police. Representations have been made to the state department and an inquiry has been started.

Dr. Doolittle has succeeded Dr. Harvey Wiley as chief pure food expert of the United States government, in the agricultural department.

MARTIAL LAW FOR MANAGUA?

AMERICAN TROOPS TO PROTECT FOREIGNERS.

Unless Conditions Improve Immediately, Minister Weitzel Will Take Charge of Government.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Unless conditions in Nicaragua materially improve within the next 48 hours, the United States will order Minister Weitzel to take charge of the government and with the aid of 350 marines and 100 bluejackets already in Managua, proclaim martial law.

Long experience with Latin-American republics has shown the state department that too much leniency is a dangerous thing and, while President Taft is wedded to ideas of peace and diplomacy, even he admitted to Secretary Knox that something should be done at once.

Accordingly, the state department wired Minister Weitzel to assume control of the American troops in Nicaragua, moving them as he thought best for the protection of foreigners and their property, and even using them to attack the rebels should they attempt to bombard the foreign portion of Managua.

Owing to the difficulties of communication nothing further reached the state department concerning this threat.

In addition to the 450 sailors and marines already at Managua, Weitzel will have the aid of 300 sailors from the Denver which has sailed from San Diego, Cal., for Corinto, within three days.

HURON CEMETERY UNDISTURBED

Bill Prohibiting Removal of Indian Bodies Reported Favorably.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Sentiment triumphed over commercial necessity when the house Indian affairs committee favorably reported a bill prohibiting the removal of Huron cemetery, an Indian burying ground in Kansas City, Kas., in which repose the bones of members of the once powerful Wyandotte tribe.

The cemetery had been used by the tribe for many years and scores of the survivors petitioned that the graves of their fathers be left undisturbed. The bill already has passed the senate. The ground was desired for commercial purposes.

BURGLAR USED A TRAINED DOG

Wichita, Aug. 15.—A burglar, who had for a lookout a big bulldog, broke into eight stores in Belleplaine and carried away several hundred dollars' worth of goods besides taking money. He was seen about midnight when Mr. Constans, a restaurant owner, closed his place and started home, striding on the corner with the bulldog. Later the tracks of the animal were seen in the rear of every store robbed. The burglar had a wagon. There had been a rain and the tracks were seen distinctly.

Put Treasure in Bank.

Liberty, Mo., Aug. 15.—After making a deposit of $5,333.01 in the Commercial Bank of Liberty, C. E. Yancey left for his farm in Howard county where a pot of gold was found last week. It is believed that the large deposit made by him was his share of the amount found by one of his farmhands while he was repairing the foundation of the house there.

DARROW PLEAD FOR LIBERTY

BITTER TOWARDS PROSECUTORS

During Three Hour Speech Accused Man Mixed Denunciation of Accusers With Analysis of Evidence.

Los Angeles, Aug. 15.—Clarence S. Darrow, champion of organized labor and defender in the courts of its leaders and principles, pleaded for his own liberty and reputation in his trail for alleged jury bribery. He faced the jury in the afternoon at the conclusion of Earl Rogers' argument.

The Chicago lawyer poured torrents of wrath and denunciation upon those who he declared had plotted to destroy him. From an arraignment of his enemies, he went briefly into his career as a friend of the working classes and thence into an analysis of the evidence produced against him to prove the charge that he had bribed George N. Lockwood, a prospective juror in the McNamara case.

Throughout three hours, consumed by him, Darrow touched upon every phase of the case and ran the gamut of emotions in his plea. No man or organization involved in his prosecution was immune from his denunciation.

Severe on All.

Assistant District Attorney W. J. Ford, who sat within his reach, was made the object of repeated floods of invective. District Attorney Fredericks and Detective Burns were termed the tools of the steel trust, and the National Erectors' association designated by Darrow as the arch conspirator against him because of his labors for the workingman, was bitterly assailed as an enemy of society. Collectively, all were denounced as "cruel a band of cutthroats as ever pursued a man since the world was born."

Darrow declared he was not being prosecuted for bribery, but because he had led in the battle of organized labor.

To Conclude in Morning.

"I have committed one crime," he said, "which is like the crime against the Holy Ghost, which cannot be forgiven. I have stood for the weak and the poor. I have stood for the men who toil. And therefore I have stood against them. Now is their chance." The enemies of labor, he charged, had long sought to get him out of the way.

Enumerating all to whom immunity has been extended in the effort to convict him, Mr. Darrow asked why it was his associates in the McNamara case had not been prosecuted. The answer, he said, was because Davis lived in Los Angeles and it was not the intention of the authorities to prosecute anyone in this city.

Darrow will conclude his argument in the morning after which District Attorney Fredericks will make the final argument. The prosecutor expects to consume the remainder of the day.

TROUBLE BREWING NOW IN EGYPT

Alexandria, Egypt Aug. 15.—International complications involving Italy and Great Britain are threatened as the result of the holdup of a Roumanian mail steamer, from Constantinople, in Egyptian waters by an Italian war vessel. A number of Turkish officers who were on board were seized.

At the time, the steamer was only a few miles off this port and protests have been made by the Turkish authorities that the action of the Italians was in direct violation of Egyptian neutrality. They threaten to bring the matter formally to the attention of the powers.

Oppose New Wheat Law.

Dodge City, Kan., Aug. 15.—A formal protest signed by hundreds of the the leading wheat growers of Ford and adjacent counties is to be presented at once to the Kansas state board of health against the law forbidding the sale of wheat containing a half pound of weed or other foreign matter. W. G. Painter, a leading land owner and real estate man who is circulating the petition, says the farmers consider the law the greatest outrage perpetrated against them in years.

New Town Platted.

Dodge City, Kan., Apg. 15.—The newest town in Western Kansas is Wildroads, a few miles from here in Ford county, on the Rock Island. It has just been platted and two elevators, a general store, postoffice and other business houses are planned. The Rock Island will put in a station soon.

New Sultan of Morocco.

Paris, Aug. 15.—Mulai Yusef was proclaimed sultan of Morocco, succeeding Mulai Hafid, who abdicated, according to a cablegram just received.

MAY YET AGREE ON ONE BATTLESHIP

TO ECLIPSE ALL DREADNAUGHTS

Friends of Navy Will Urge Construction of Largest and Most Formidable Fighting Craft Ever Built.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The Democrats of the house who believe the United States should keep abreast of smaller nations in maintaining a modern navy have successfully fought the other Democrats' "no battleship" program, which was caused by an effort to "reduce expenses." A recent caucus forbade the majority members of the house from voting for any new warship appropriation. A caucus just held withdrew this action and permits them to vote for one vessel—but not more.

Now the friends of the navy will make a campaign to have this one vessel they are permitted to provide for the largest and most formidable fighting craft that even Hobson's fondest dreams can picture.

To be Best of All.

That such a move will meet with bitter debate on the ground of extravagance is a foregone conclusion. The advocates of two new ships a year, however, boast that the new craft will be equal in battle efficiency to any two ships below the dreadnaught size, and far superior to any of the largest monsters now afloat.

Unlike the four preceding caucuses, there was an absence of bitterness of feeling and by a rising vote of 95 to 11 the resolution of recession was put through. It is expected the senate will agree to the one battleship plan, ending the deadlock over the naval bill.

There were present in the secret meeting 126 members representing all opinions on the subject of appropriating for naval expenses and of these 20 refrained from voting.

Not Bound to Vote.

"Resolved: That the former action of the Democratic caucuses in regard to battleships be and is hereby modified so as to premit any and all Democratic members who desire to do so, to vote in the house for one battleship only and to permit the Democratic member of the conference committee on the naval appropriation bill to agree to one battleship. No member is bound by this resolution to vote for one battleship should he not desire to do so."

Representative Sulzer of New York, who has led the fight for two battleships in the pending bill, sought in vain to have the caucus take no action as to the number of ships, but to release members to vote for one or two as they saw fit.

Witness Got Away.

Dodge City, Kan., Aug. 15.—The Ford county jail being filled, Cleveland Clay, of Georgia, held as a witness against Will Watson, charged with robbing the Bedell jewelry store, gained freedom from his improvised cell in the city hall by breaking two window bars. Clay still is at large.

SON BORN TO MRS. JOHN JACOB ASTOR.

New Arrival Has $3,000,000 in His Own Name — Mother Had Wished for Boy.

New York, Aug. 14.—A 7¾-pound boy was born to Mrs. Madeline Force Astor, widow of Col. John Jacob Astor, who perished in the Titanic disaster last April. The baby has a fortune of $3,000,000 in his own name.

News of the interesting event was conveyed to the world by the following bulletin issued by the specialist in charge:

Mrs. Astor has a son, born at 8:15 a. m. His name is John Jacob Astor. The mother and son are in good condition.

That the child was a boy was a matter of great satisfaction to Mrs. Astor and her family. Mrs. Astor announced to friends that she hoped it would be a boy, to bear the name of her husband. Vincent Astor was until now the only son of Colonel Astor, and there was none to dispute with the new arrival the name of John Jacob Astor. The child is the fourth of the line to bear that name.

The young mother a few days ago sent word to waiting reporters that she preferred to be referred to as Mrs. John Jacob Astor, instead of Mrs. Madeline Force Astor. The arrival of a boy, it is said, may further strengthen the rivalry between the widow and Mrs. Ava Willing Astor, divorced wife of Colonel Astor, now in Europe. Mrs. Ava Willing Astor has announced that she will hereafter be known as Mrs. John Astor.

By the terms of the will of Colonel Astor, the baby becomes the possessor of $3,000,000 outright, which he may dispose of at will during his minority. Had little John Jacob been one of twins or even triplets, each child, by the Astor will, would have received $3,000,000.

A Lady Unafraid

By LOUISE OLNEY

(Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.)

She was little enough and slight enough and with a great enough burden upon her. But she carried herself with a gallant lift of the head and squared shoulders. In boyhood her father had begun by hard work to make a fortune. If in old age he had suddenly lost it, his daughter thought she could begin at the foot as he had done. Regina Frank was equipped with youth and health and her courage was even better than her father's, because through her aristocratic mother she inherited a thoroughbred strain. She was even thankful that the mother died just before the crash came.

This hot morning she came to the office prepared for nothing but the usual routine which her year's steady work had mastered. And the unusual happened.

Zant's real estate office was quiet enough and as vacations were on and business hopefessly dull, Jared Zant stayed at home that day and sent his son to the office. Junior would have preferred golf or dawdling about summer verandas where pretty girls were to be found, but he knew that after an elaborate college education and several years abroad at dad's expense, it was necessary for him to do office duty on request. Therefore, he went, for the first time in two years.

And he saw Regina. Regina was to all appearances almost oblivious to his gay presence. He could feel that her steady brown eyes marked his entrance, took stock of him in general, and then attended to the day's correspondence, lifting for another look only when their owner heard herself addressed.

She took a few unimportant letters for him, wrote a few important ones on her own initiative and got him to sign them, and generally minded her business with extreme concentration. In which trait she was like her father, John Trant.

Just before luncheon young Zant wondered whether he dared try conversation with her, and irritably decided that he didn't know what to say to her. He meant to ask dad where he got her. He hadn't known that girls like that worked in offices. His keen blue eyes followed her every line and color and movement with a sort of surprised approval. She might have been a college queen—and with that thought he dawdled out to lunch.

Saw Regina Full Length and Face Down Upon the Grass.

Along the middle of the afternoon came breezing into the office Maidie Perkins, her fat mother and her fatter father. They had heard that a picturesque, old-looking place on the lake was for sale—the old Trant place. Did Mr. Zant handle it? Old Perkins thought so, and gave a sidewise look of admiration at Regina, who made no sign until the young man turned to her for help.

"I'm only here for the day, you know," he said helplessly. "Miss—the lady here will tell you." He looked at Regina.

"We have the place—it's for sale. Have you looked at it?"

"The dearest grounds, and the house so romantic looking!—can you let us see it? Does any one here know all about it?" They all looked at Regina—but Maidie. Jerry Zant turned to Regina.

"Could you go out with thme? Do you know the place?" She gave a queer little smile. Did she know the place which her father had built for her, dear in every stone in brick, every nook and corner?

"I know it well," she said. "I will go if you like." Her steady eyes met young Zant and all their deep beauty was for an instant his.

"We have the car out here—we can bring her back," said Perkins. "My daughter thinks she wants the place, and if it isn't too steep for my pile she can have it—what do you want for it?" John Zant, Jr., turned to Regina and consulting a card catalogue she coolly named the price. Then she put on her hat nad gloves and prepared to go. At the door she heard a little call, and waited for orders.

"Miss—Miss—you needn't come back [illegible]." She gave him a little bow, as if it were she dismissing him instead of he her.

"By—gravy!" he remarked when she had gone. Then he repeated the elegant ejaculation: "What's her name?—and where did dad get her? Look out, my boy, or you are gone for sure!" With which adjuration he called over to the further corner of the room for Walters to come to him.

Walters had been young a half century ago, but was now withered up and wrinkled, smug and dry-as-dust. Walters was bald, and his lips were pursed, and a pen was over his ear. He faced his employer's young son.

"Miss Regina; Regina Trant," he sumbitted solemnly. "Your father would never 'a sent the gal out to sell her own old home, neither! I must say that fer 'im!"

"What?" submitted the young man. "What do you mean?"

"Her father, old John Trant, built that there place on the lake for Miss Regina. She never speaks of it. He lost everything—guess you were at school. She was—east somewheres, and her ma died sudden and they gone. He was honest and paid his creditors. She supports him now. It'll make her feel bad to show that silly gal around the place. If you had of asked me—but she will make the sale all right—she's true blue—she ain't afraid."

"She's a lady—unafraid, all right," breathed Zant, junior, his eyes and his imagination on fire. "I'll go right out there—and—and—I will fix it up someway. You look after the office, Walters. Phone father if anything comes up and say I'm out on business that would not wait."

At the nearest garage the young man got a car and went spinning down the avenues and out the boulevard to the lake, through the lesser, wandering roads to the old Trant place. As he reached the gate and got out he met the Perkinses going to their own car. Regina was not with them.

"Where's your—guide?" he asked lightly, while Maidie's eyes suggested assorted coquetries. The girl was pettish and enthusiastic.

"She said she wanted to walk about by herself and would go in on the trolley. I have decided that I want the place. I must say she seemed to know every corner of it and made it awfully interesting. I want it."

An inspirtion came to the young man. He was sorry for Maidie, but burning with zeal to see her go. He turned to her father.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but I was new in the office, and didn't know that the place is no longer for sale. The Trants want it back—they have the first right to it."

"I'll give $500 more outright for it," began Perkins, but Zant was firm. Finally, he mollified and got rid of them on promise to show them another place the next day.

He turned in at the gatt of the big, homey old place and wandered down a garden path. The grass was tangled and uncut, the roses blooming in wild profusion. He heard a queer little sob like a child's, and turning a corner saw Regina full length and face down upon the grass under a tree. She had not heard him.

"Don't," he said awkwardly, kneeling beside her, "please don't."

In an instant she was on her feet, and he also rose. She stood facing him, her hands hanging straight at her side, the tears on her cheeks. She tried to smile, but it was hard work.

"I—" she began quietly, "I used to live here, and——"

"I was a brute!" he said. "I didn't know. I met the Perkinses and told them the place is not for sale. I have some money from my grandmother. I want to get it—for you. You must think I am insane, but I am not. I intend to make you love me and come here and live with me some day, and your father, too. I won't insult you by asking you now. But—the place shall never be sold again—I won't let dad do it. Will you walk about a bit and show it to me?" He picked up her hat and soothed her with commonplace inquiries until she forgot her trouble and was once more herself.

"I'm so ahamed," she murmured when the sun was low and they were again at the gate. She would not go in the machine with him, but made him put her on the trolley. He left her reluctantly.

"You will remember—what I said?" he asked impetuously. She gave a little smile and that gallant little lift of the head.

When "Labby" Biundered.

The worst mess that I ever got into was at a dinner in a country town where I took the chair. Having got through all the usual toasts some friends prompted me to propose the health of the mayor's wife. I drew a picture of a sort of modern Cornelia; I dwelt upon the matron's domestic virtues, and prayed heaven that I might find such a wife. Carried away by my subject, I had forgotten my audience. Suddenly I perceived that some were looking down, others staring at me as though their eyes would come out of their heads, others smiled in a curious manner, while the mayor was glaring at me like a wild beast. I discovered afterward that the mayoress had fled from the domestic hearth a few weeks previously with a Don Juan of a grocer. I have never been asked since to take the chair at a dinner in that town.—Labby Reprinted in London Truth.

QUAINT NAMES GIVEN CLUBS

London Institutions Seem to Have Been Designed for All Sorts of Queer People.

The title "Cave of the Golden Calf" bestowed on London's first cabaret theater club, which opened its doors recently, recalls other curiously named clubs which have flourished in this country at different times.

For instance, there was the "Calves' Head club,' founded in "ridicule of the memory of Charles I."

"The Everlasting" was a purely social club, with a membership of 100 souls.

"The Little club" was a distinctly original institution. It was intended for those not five feet high. The door was made high enough to admit a man five feet and no more.

There were many others, eccentric in name and tradition, which flourished during the eighteenth century, such as "The Great Bottle club," the "Je Ne Sais Quoi club," "The Sons of the Thames" and the "No Pay No Liquor club," whose members on the first night of joining were obliged to pay an entrance fee of one shilling and wear a hat shaped like a quart pot.—London Tit-Bits.

American Shopping.

A New York letter in the Munich Gazette speaks of the pleasures of shopping in the great cities of the United States, and lays particular stress on the "fairness" of the rules under which all stores seem to work. "It makes no difference," says the writer, "how unfamiliar one is with the language and the currency—he has the same place in the line of patrons with the natives. Polite salesmen and saleswomen show the goods, which are seldom urged upon the customer; the prices are fixed, and one knows that he buys at the same figure without bidding less, as his neighbor who tries to pinch the price. In one place I purchased goods to the value of 7 marks, listened to a fine concert, took tea at a small price, wrote several letters in a beautiful room at no cost save the postage, and found the goods at my home when I reached there a few hours later."

Why It Has a Hump.

Keepers of the zoological gardens are expected to know all the facts and theories of natural history, and, as they do not, they sometimes have to manufacture explanations.

"What's it for?" repeated the keeper, in a dazed way.

"Yes, of what value is it?"

The keeper thought real hard for a minute, and then said, gravely:

"Why, sir, do you suppose folks would come miles to see this animal if it didn't have a hump? Sir, a camel if it didn't have a hump might just as well be a cow. That's the use of the hump!"

Something Like It.

"Will you have some mocking bird soup?"

A new waitress in a family hotel on the hill startled the diners last evening by asking this question.

"I'll not eat at this hotel again, I'm a member of the Audubon society. The very idea! Making soup out of mocking birds!" indignantly remarked a woman.

"I'll take a chance on it just once," said her husband.

The waitress went to the kitchen and returned.

"I made a mistake," she said. "It was mock turtle soup."

But That Was Long Ago.

CARDUI WORKED LIKE A CHARM

Jonesville, S. C.—"I suffered with womanly trouble," writes Mrs. J. S. Kendrick, in a letter from this place, "and at times, I could not bear to stand on my feet. The doctor said I would never be any better, and that I would have to have an operation, or I would have a cancer.

I went to the hospital, and they operated on me, but I got no better. They said medicines would do me no good, and I thought I would have to die.

At last I tried Cardui, and began to improve, so I continued using it. Now, I am well, and can do my own work. I don't feel any pains.

Cardui worked like a charm."

There must be merit in this purely vegetable, tonic remedy, for women—Cardui—for it has been in successful use for more than 50 years, for the treatment of womanly weakness and disease.

Please try it, for your troubles.
